In an effort to boost tourism, Skagway broke out the gaming tables in the early 60s. Gamblers are shown using Days of 98’, Eagles Dance Hall scrip.

The man above has a name tag showing him to be a passenger on the state ferry Malaspina.

Unlike Skagway, perhaps because of different laws and regulations, Dawson City, Yukon succeeded in opening Canada’s first gambling hall - Diamond Tooth Gertie’s.

Historic-type gambling has been a boon to Dawson City’s economy. It is unfortunate that Skagway could not follow suit.
EDITOR’S COMMENTS

In the early 1960s, Alaska and Yukon were starting to flex their tourism muscle. On the front page, we see make belief gambling in Skagway. In 1962, Dawson was starting to renovate to present itself as a tourist destination. Sadly, Alaska law did not allow for “historic gambling” as was developed in Dawson.

A friend had proposed “fantasy” gambling for the vacant lot across from our store (before the Marriott Spring Hill Hotel was built). He was obviously hoping that the state would eventually change the law and allow historic gambling. The City would not sell him the property. I am so glad it do not happen because I would have had to kept the store open until 2AM in the summer. I don’t want to work that hard.

We have been very busy, spending money like a drunken sailor on wine, women and, no wait. That’s books and tokens. Some books are offered at a fixed price in this issue, while others are in our April 8 auction. More tokens than usual are in this auction, so take a look to see if there is anything of interest (pages 26 and 27). I apoligize for the small print. We had to squeeze it onto only 2 pages.

Watch our eBay sales (user name alaskararecoins) for some better tokens.

Our thanks this month to David Phillips. His article on the Diamond Tooth Gertie’s wood was very timely, fitting in with the rest of the newsletter.

A special thanks this month to the Hougen Group of Companies in Whitehorse for permission to reprint the Dawson City, 1962 article on page 21. Their web site has many articles of historical interest - www.hougengroup.com/yukon-history/yukon-nuggets.

The star on eBay this month was a cannyy token from Tee Harbor at $2,600. A mutilated Chicken (B-1a) token sold for $580, while a pair of Livengood cardboard tokens (B-4) sold for $635.00. Several rather scarce tokens went unsold at their opening bid.

DAWSON CITY, 1962

After years of neglect, Dawson City in the early sixties had the classic look of a rundown ghost town. However, plans were underway to spruce up the most famous gold rush town in the world.

In 1962, the federal government began an effort to restore some of the old gold rush buildings and turn Dawson into a tourist mecca. The centerpiece of this effort was the Palace Grand Theatre built by Arizona Charlie Meadows at the turn of the century. Meadows was a veteran of the Wild West Shows, having worked with Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill’s wild west shows in the United States. On his way to the Klondike, Meadows picked up loose change by shooting spots off a deck of cards. He also carried with him a portable bar, selling booze to stampeders at various camps along the way.

To build the Palace Grand, Meadows used lumber from two steamboats he had bought. By the spring of 1899, the theatre opened and featured a stage play called “Camille.” Charlie Meadows would also stage wild west shows of sorts at his Grande Theatre. But it didn’t last long. For all intents and purposes, the gold rush ended in the fall of ’99, just two years after it began.

For years the Palace Grand stood as a run down reminder of those glorious gold rush days at the turn of the century. Then, in June of 1962, the restored Palace Grand opened with a sparkling ceremony which included the opening of a new Broadway play called FOXY. The star of this light-hearted musical comedy was Bert Lahr, who had gained world-wide fame as the cowardly lion in the famous movie the ‘Wizard of Oz.’

The staging of a Broadway play in Dawson City took considerable cheek and money. The play itself didn’t achieve critical acclaim and the timing of such an elaborate stage show was questionable. Dawson City didn’t have the facilities to support much tourist business. It would be many years before the town would be fully restored. Yet with the renovated Palace Grand came the determination to put the spirit of the Klondike Gold Rush back into the Klondike.

A CKRW Yukon Nugget by Les McLaughlin

Courtesy of Hougen Group of Companies.

1962 was a big year for Dawson.

A set of medals was issued for the First Annual Gold Rush Festival. These were handled by North Star Enterprises of Fairbanks. They had started having medals made in 1961 (see the next page).

For the Gold Rush Festival, they made brass, silver (1898) and gold (98).

I am sure I have seen a silver medal with a small gold nugget in the gold pan.

Recently, we have acquired a brass medal with a different finish, and a large gold nugget in the pan. The finish is a dull tan color.

Lastly, a neat little charm or pendant, “Dawson Festival 1962,” with a miner with a pick, another with a gold pan. It is sterling, with blue enamel around the border, about 19mm.
THE PROGRESSION OF NORTH STAR ENTERPRISES

I am sure there have been many businesses that have used this name, but in 1962 and 1963, it was used by a firm that issued commemorative tokens and medals. Based upon the style of the medals, N.S.E. was probably also responsible for a 1961 medal. Gold Nugget Coin Cache, quite possibly the same principals issued the medal in 1964.

The 1961 medal is quite plain, with a map of Alaska extending into Yukon on the obverse, with “Alaska” across the map, and the date below. The reverse simply stated “America’s Last Frontier.” No indication of the issuer is on the medal.

In 1962, the obverse design is similar. The reverse continues to state “America’s Last Frontier, but it takes on a whole new function. It states that it is “Good for $1.00 during ’62 at any cooperative business or redeemable for one Alaska gold nugget from: North Star Enterprises, P.O. Box 1266, Fairbanks, Alaska.” Incorporated into the reverse design is a sparsely vegetated tundra with an Alaskan Native in a hooded parka, a ptarmigan and forget-me-not flowers. At the bottom rim, in tiny letters is “© 1962, North Star Enterprises.”

Both the 1961 and 1962 were struck only in brass.

Also in 1962, North Star Enterprises struck medals for the First Annual Gold Rush Festival in Dawson, Yukon. See the previous page.

Carrying on this newly established tradition, in 1963, N.S.E. enhanced the obverse design the with fish, a kayak, canoe and ferry, and adding “Land of the Midnight Sun.” The reverse has morphed into a “Cheechako Grubstake.” It states “This token acknowledges the holder’s participation in the old tradition of grubstaking and is redeemable for One Alaska Gold Nugget From: some anonymous prospector or North Star Enterprises...” The copyright statement again appears at the bottom rim. These were struck in brass and sterling silver. Mintage on the sterling silver was only 49.

In 1964, a very similar token was issued by the Gold Nugget Coin Cache. This time, it is a 2 Pinch Token, “redeemable for two pinches of Alaska Gold Dust from: The Gold Nugget Coin Cache, Box 287, Fairbanks, Alaska.” It carries a copyright notice along the bottom rim - “© 1964, Gold Nugget Coin Cache.” These were struck in brass and sterling silver, again with only 49 of the sterling silver struck.

A set of North Star Enterprises medals (1961 and 1962 brass; 1963 and 1964 silver and brass, and 1962 Dawson Gold Rush Festival silver and bronze) are offered in our April 8 auction. Please see lot 291.

LESLIE C. HILL

It is with sadness that we have learned of the passing of Les Hill. Ron Greene reports that Les passed away Feb. 20, 2017. Les was a researcher of British Columbia and Yukon tokens. We will include a more fitting tribute to Les in our next issue.
Money to Burn

GAMBLING FOR WOODS!

This wood was used in Diamond Tooth Gertie’s Gambling hall, Dawson City, Yukon, during the years 1985 through 1993. Prior to 1985, Diamond Tooth Gertie’s had used 25¢ and 50¢ chips. Why a change to wood was made is unknown.

It was given out only on the Black Jack tables (but was redeemable anywhere in the Gambling Hall). It was “earned” as follows: If a Black Jack player placed a bet of one dollar ($1), the minimum bet, and hit Black Jack (21) on the first two cards dealt to him/her, and this was not duplicated by the dealer, then the player received 1½ times his/her bet. If they bet the minimum, then they received $1.50. Hence, these special 50¢ woods were for the Black Jack tables only.

It is thought that 1,000 of these woods were made by Kedco Products, Ltd.

After 1993, the Gambling Hall raised the minimum bet to $2, so a Black Jack (21) would pay $3. There were $1 chips available.

My sincere thanks to Vic Tubman of Dawson City for ferreting out this information for me.

BEFORE THERE WAS DIAMOND TOOTH GERTIE’S

This inventory features a list of tokens on a page, followed by a page or more of illustrations. It is a photocopy publication so images are not great but acceptable. Housed in a three ring binder. <td>Alaska &amp; Yukon Tokens and Medals: From 1961 to 1964, a set of medals/tokens were issued, presumably by North Star Enterprises of Fairbanks. The 1964 is marked “Gold Nugget Coin Cache” and good for 2 pinches of gold dust. All four were issued in brass, while the 1963 and 1964 were also issued in sterling silver. Both of these are quite rare with only 49 of each minted. Also included is the 1962 First Annual Gold Rush Festival medals from Dawson City, Yukon, sterling silver and brass. <td>Official Alaska Purchase Centennial Medals, 1967. Since 2017 is the sesquicentennial of the purchase of Alaska, we thought it appropriate to trot out the Centennial commemorative from 1967. The obverse features a portrait of William H. Seward. The reverse has the Centennial totem pole, with the dome of a Russian Orthodox Church, the American eagle, gold panner, train all topped by the star of the 49th state. These were struck by Medallic Art Co. in 999 fine silver (5.25 troy ounces) and bronze in ultra-high relief. The quality of these medals is unsurpassed, and not likely to be duplicated in the near future. These are in their original boxes, a little worn from being 50 years old! 2 pieces. 250.00+</td>

<td>Official State of Alaska 1 oz. Silver Medal, 1990, proof-like. The second year of issue, with 9,166 struck. This medal is an ERROR! It has an incomplete “railroad edge.” The medal was not completely surrounded by the collar, so only part of the reeding is present. On a complete railroad edge, the reeding goes entirely around the edge but does not cover the whole edge. The other portion is plain and raised, sort of resembling a railroad track. On this medal, most of the edge is like this, but the reeding disappears on about 25% of the edge, and it is entirely plain. Add to that 27 years of toning in our store and you have a striking piece. If this were a common date Morgan Dollar with this toning, it would probably be worth in four figures. This exciting error with great toning can be yours for only a fraction of that price. 150.00+</td>

296 Official State of Alaska Silver Medals, 1997. This year featured the Musk Ox on the obverse, designed by Gary Kuchinka of Eagle River. With mintages in parenthesis, this lot includes a 1 oz. matte finish (2,975); ¼ oz. Proof (1,950); and 1/10 oz. Proof (2,355). All in their original flips. 3 medals.

297 Official State of Alaska Silver Medals Proof Set, 2002. This set includes the five sizes from 1/20 to 1 troy oz. This year featured the King Crab on the obverse, also designed by Gary Kuchinka of Eagle River. We notice that this is currently listed on the Alaska Mint web site for $300.

298 Official State of Alaska 1/10 oz. Gold Medal, 1989. This was the first year for the State medallion program. An Eskimo is depicted on the obverse of the gold medals, the only year a human figure was used. This is a scarce item we seldom see with only 217 minted.

299 Official State of Alaska ¼ oz. Gold Medal, 1989. The same design as the previous 1/10 oz., but only 103 were minted! We do note some light toning spots which is somewhat typical of these.

300 Official State of Alaska 1/10 oz. Gold Medal, 1990. By this year, Alaska Precious Metals was in financial trouble and they minted the four silver medals, but only 1 oz. and 1/10 oz. gold medals. These medals depict Puffins on the obverse. Only 120 were struck. Some very light fly specks are noted.

301 Official State of Alaska 1/10 oz. Gold Medal, 1993. This was the second year for the Alaska Mint to issue the State medals, and the Wolf was illustrated on the obverse. These were well executed and quite popular - 150 were issued. A few fly specks are noted although not serious. This comes with all the original packaging.

302 Official State of Alaska ½ oz. Gold Medal, 1993. The Alaska Mint Only issued three different size gold medals: 1/10, ½ and 1 troy ounce. This is the rarest of the three with only 49 struck, again with the same Wolf design. Original packaging.

303 Official State of Alaska 1 oz. Gold Medal, 1993. Another rarity with only 77 minted. We do note red fly speck toning on both sides of the medal. Includes all of the original packaging. This is the final medal in this complete 1993 State gold medal offering.

304 Official State of Alaska 1/10 oz. Gold Medal, 1999. This was definitely one of the better issues with a Dall Sheep on the obverse. 239 were minted. We note on this example a multi-colored toning spot at 11:00 obverse that will not dip out. Original packaging.

305 Official State of Alaska 1/10 oz. Gold Medal, 2001. The Mountain Goat was featured on the obverse and only 160 were minted this year. Original packaging.

306 Official State of Alaska 1/20 oz. Gold Medal, 2006. The Alaska King Salmon is pictured on the obverse and only 100 were minted. Original packaging.

307 Fur Rendezvous Pins, 1994. These are large (1 5/8" tall) in a triangular shape. Identical except one is pewter while the other is nicely enameled. Both are with their original packaging and are popular collectibles. 2 pins.

308 Iditarod 1 oz. Proof Silver Medal, 1995. 5,000 were struck of which this is #667. Original packaging.

309 Iditarod 1 oz. Proof Silver Medal, 1997. This was the 25th anniversary of the Iditarod Sled Dog Race. 3,000 were minted of which this is number 2876. Original packaging.

310 Alaska Railroad 1oz. Proof Silver Medal, 1996. We do not often see these earlier issues (first issued in 1990). This is #1085 of 1,500. The obverse depicts a caboose. Original packaging.

311 Alaska Railroad 1oz. Proof Silver Medal, 1997. The obverse features an engine with snow blower on the front. 1,500 were minted of which this is #1388. Original packaging.

312 Alaska Book. Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition, by Henry Martz, 1908. While the title is AYPE, it really is a photo book of Alaska and Yukon, and not the Exposition. Sadly, the cover and first page are missing and it appears also the back cover and the last page. Despite these deficiencies, the scope of the photos is fantastic. About 100 pages. If intact, this is worth at least $150. A resource and not a collectible. Also included is Polk’s Seattle Street and Avenue Guide, with New Map….and Street Car Directory 1909. We just thought this should go with the AYPE book. Two items.

313 Alaska Book. Before there was Alaska Magazine, there was Alaska Magazine! Offered here are bound copies of Vol. I, no. 1 to 5, January to May, 1927. Nearly 300 pages of historical articles and period advertising. Since 1927 was the 50th anniversary of the purchase of Alaska, many of the articles relate to the Russian period. Also included is a copy of Alaska Life magazine, May 1945. The focus of this issue is Nome and northwest Alaska, but there is an article about the Fairbanks High School Malamutes boys basketball team, with some cool action shots! Two items.

315 Alaska Steamship Menus. These are for the S.S. Yukon, dated from Sept. 3 to Sept. 8, 1933, 24 menus with Alaska photos on one side, menu on the other, plus two blank menus. Several different photos, with duplication. The menus are about 5½ inches by 8½ inches. Also included is a folding menu with a Sidney Laurence painting on the cover for Sept 7, 1933, in a tattered envelope. All in nice condition, a few stray markings noted. 27 pcs.

321 Gold Nugget Bracelet. Year ago it seemed as if every lady had a nugget bracelet as a basic jewelry need. They definitely are a unique Alaskan art form. This bracelet came in with an estate and is approximately 8 inches long and weighs .33 troy oz. The links show minimal wear and the nuggets are well matched. The clasp is a safe but simple E-Z lock type and there is also a safety chain. New, this would retail for about $990.
